

In 2018 we participated in the Climate March in Helsinki, where Greta Thunberg gave one of her first speeches.

We called upon politicians to stop fuelling the war in Ukraine, in particular by ending the use of Russian fossil fuels.

We joined and co-financed a campaign asking the Finnish Parliament to put an end date on the use of peat for energy production.

10 YEARS OF... advocating for climate legislation

- While individual climate action is important to serve as an example and inspire others, it's equally important our political decision-makers follow suit and embed climate action in legislation and regulation.
- As renewable energy has become an affordable and feasible alternative to fossil fuels, it's time to actively phase out fossil fuels and deter polluters.
- We are regularly involved in the writing of position papers, we sign petitions, and we participate in demonstrations. Usually, we do so as a part of wider coalitions.

During the Covid pandemic, we supported numerous initiatives asking for a green recovery.

We participate in the Fridays For Future demonstrations, almost every week.

Many of the Climate Fund projects that we finance include an advocacy part. The installations that we finance are used to show the potential of renewable energy to local decision-makers.

We co-authored and/or signed tens of letters against new fossil fuel projects and endorsed the Fossil Fuel Non-Proliferation Treaty initiative.

In 2015, we supported many activities in support of the first Finnish Climate law and in 2016 we supported the energy transition campaign.

Together with Climate Action Network Europe and many others, we campaigned for a drastic increase of the EU renewable energy targets.

It's time for a
